N: Course Content:

Major Themes:

1. Development of the Canadian Nation and State

A historical approach provides a perspective through which students may view Canada's political development. The course examines pre-confederation issues, territorial expansion, population growth, immigration, problems of nation building, identity and the development of the Canadian state.

2. Political Culture and Political Socialization

The concepts of political culture and political socialization will be defined, and provide a means of examining Canadians and their political system. Significant political cleavages will be examined as well as the concept of multiculturalism, and the emergence of abor
